LOCAL ITEMS

Ola Cypari—the reliable remedy for all skin roughness and chapped hands. The Kennedy Drug Store.

A number of people attended the Masquerade Dance held here last Friday. The crowd was not as large as it might have been, and a large number omitted the formality of wearing a mask. The music was hardly as good as that provided on the last occasion the same orchestra were here.

Oh Yes, We Knead It

One of our subscribers sent us the following from a paper, which, hitting the spot as it does, we are publishing for reasons that need not be enlarged upon:-

"It is reported that a fastidious, newly-married bride of this town kneads bread with her gloves on. This may be peculiar, but—there are others. The editor of this paper kneads bread with his shoes on. He kneads bread with his shirt on and he kneads bread with his trousers on, and, unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this old rag of freedom, etc., pay up their arrears before long, he will knead bread without anything on." Further comment is not only unnecessary but also superfluous.

Rest Room is now Discontinued

At a recent meeting of the executive of the Monitor branch, G. W. V. A., it was decided to discontinue the "Rest Room" and the Vets wish to take this opportunity of thanking the people of Monitor and district for the interest shown in their endeavors in the past. They regret that present circumstances are such that they are forced to discontinue this public utility.

Business must be picking up on the C. P. R. Anyway, our worthy station agent, P. Moth, Esq. has a brand-new assistant—Mr. Harley Jnr. Guess we can look for a raise in some rate or other now.

The Rev. W. S. Wickenden left last Monday for Prince Albert to attend an Executive meeting. He expects to return to-day.

Miss Bernice Carroll left on Tuesday for an extended visit to her brother in New York City. She will study music while there.

Is the League Dead?

The Republican party having scored an overwhelming victory in the United States Presidential elections on a platform of opposition to the League of Nations fathered by President Wilson, confident assertions are made throughout the big republic that the League is dead.

Speaking on the night of the election when it became apparent that the Republicans had swept the country, Senator Borah, of Idaho, a strong opponent of the League, declared that he regarded the election "as the triumph of nationalism and the death of the League of Nations." Two days later, on November 4, in his first speech as President-elect, Senator Harding said "the Versailles League of Nations is now deceased."

Do these prominent American politicians really believe that because the United States disapproves of the covenant of the League, and refuses to become a party of it, that, therefore, all the other nations of the world will abandon the League? Surely not. Some forty nations have already joined the League of Nations entered into an offensive and defensive alliance, while another group entered into a similar arrangement, the natural and inevitable result being that each group sought to outdo the other in the piling up of armaments, and the tax-burdened people of each were made to bear the load upon the specious plea that it was necessary that they should maintain great armies and navies because the others were doing so.

The League of Nations was designed to protect all; to provide a guarantee of peace should any one nation seek to act aggressively and unjustly against another. There is nothing aggressive about the League; it is purely defensive—a policeman of the world. And it is inconceivable that the nations of the world will "scrap" this institution of mutual protection merely because the United States decides to stay out of this common world brotherhood.

Undoubtedly, the covenant of the League is not perfect. How could it be expected to be arrived at, as it was, during the heat of aroused war-time passions. But no human legislation or institution set up by mere man is perfect, and certainly not in its initial stages. There was never an Act of Parliament or Congress passed that did not later call for amendment in the light of actual experience. The League covenant is not like the laws of the Medes and Persians, unchangeable. It will be altered and improved and strengthened as the years pass. But it provides common ground upon which all nations and peoples can meet, and through goodwill and co-operation it can be extended and bettered.

The recent election in the United States may mean that the League is dead so far as that country itself is concerned, although even that is doubtful. Taught for over one hundred years that they should have no entangling alliances with, or take part in the quarrels of European nations, the American Government and people strove mightily to keep out of the Great War. But the world today with its wireless, airships, submarines and so many time and distance annihilating devices, is not the world of George Washington's time. No nation can live unto itself alone, and this the United States was finally forced to admit by its entry into the war.

The American people may still desire to keep aloof and free from the difficulties of the Old World, and decline to accept responsibility for the order and good government of the world at large, but they will discover sooner or later that such isolation is not possible. As a great creditor nation, with Europe owing it many billions of dollars, the United States is deeply concerned in the restoration of peace and order in Europe and in the maintenance of peace there. Removed though it be by some thousands of miles of sea from Europe, the Great War disclosed the fact that the oceans of the world do not constitute an impenetrable defence. In the days of small and slow-going ocean vessels, the United States could afford to ignore war-like preparations in Europe. It can do so no longer. Furthermore, as a nation engaged in trade and commerce all over the world, the United States, and every interest in that country, is vitally concerned in the establishment and maintenance of stable political conditions everywhere.

The League of Nations is not dead. Certainly, no party election in the United States can kill it. Its form may change with the passage of time, but the principles upon which it is founded must live if this old world is not again to be plunged into the unspeakable horrors of universal warfare on an even more gigantic and destructive scale than prevailed between August, 1914, and November, 1918.

In Maidenhood, Womanhood and Motherhood

London, Ont.—"For many years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been my most favorite medicine. I have taken it for the ailments pertaining to womanhood and before and after motherhood, and it always proved excellent. I have also recommended 'Favorite Prescription' to many friends who have taken it with good results. It is my best medicine. I know of today for women or girls who are weak and suffering."—MRS. WM. STEEL, 179 Richmond St.

SAVED HER LIFE

St. Catharines, Ont.—"I was in a very miserable condition when I first started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription sixteen years ago. I suffered and was extremely emaciated and weak. Although I was a young woman my doctor thought I was going through the critical stage of life, but after using these remedies my strength returned, another child came and from that time on my health was perfect and my weight increased. I really believe that Dr. Pierce's remedies saved my life and I shall always praise them as long as I live."—MRS. ELIZA OVERHOLT, 43 Beach St.

Favorite Prescription should have the full confidence of every woman in Canada because it contains no alcohol and no narcotics. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package Tablets.

Siberian Alfalfa in Peace River Country

Dakota Man Finds Northern Alberta Suitable for Diversified Farming.

N. E. Hansen, of Brooklea, South Dakota, is back from a summer's sojourn in the Peace River country, where he has been making investigations into the question of agriculture in northern climes.

He is specially interested in a new type of alfalfa clover which he has imported from Siberia and which can be sown with grains in the spring, yielding a paying crop the following year. This, it is claimed by Mr. Hansen, will supplant summer fallowing and will provide the soil with root matter which will overcome soil drifting.

Siberian sheep are another of Mr. Hansen's new ideas, and he believes they will stand the utmost rigors of a northern winter. What he has seen in the Peace River country has convinced this visitor that the top of Alberta is admirably suited to diversified agriculture and that some of the experiments he has been making with Siberian types will go a long way to solve the problem of the northern farmer.

The Beggar's Hoard.

A beggar woman eighty years old, at Lyons, France, has amassed a bank account of several thousand pounds, which, along with railway shares, treasury bonds, and a stock of ready money, was discovered in her lodgings. The hoard was unearthed from a mass of rags and mouldy food by sanitary officials, called in by the neighborhood in the interests of public health.

WHY EXPERIMENT?

Food scientists claim that the leavening is largely responsible for the flavor, texture and wholesomeness of your home baking. That on no other one ingredient does so much depend. It is important, therefore, to use a baking powder that you know possesses the necessary leavening qualities.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing so equal Baby's Own Tablets, in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Curfew For Calgary.

Whether a curfew law shall be passed that will require children of 15 years and under to be off the streets and out of public places at 10 o'clock nightly unless accompanied by parent or guardian, will be the subject of a plebiscite that will be taken at the municipal elections in Calgary in December.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I am a children's nurse, and I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women, as I am only too glad to recommend the medicine."—JEAN KENT, 42 Blamford Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Girls who are troubled as Miss Kent was should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who need special advice may write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. These letters will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Germany's Long Range Guns Have Vanished

Believed to Have Been Blown Up and Flares Hidden.

Where are the long range German guns which started the world one day in March, 1918, by dropping shells into Paris from a distance of 75 miles? This is a question the inter-allied commission for the disarmament of Germany would like to have answered. Not a trace of these long tubes or of the drawings for their construction is reported to have been found. The guns and everything connected with them have disappeared as mysteriously as they appeared. It is believed they were blown up, but the blueprints and plans have been hidden where none will find them.

Paper Keeps Weeds Down.

In Hawaii it has been found that weeds can be kept down in sugar plantations by covering the fields with paper, which is easily penetrated by the sharp sugar cane shoots.

Education and Wealth.

When one considers that the increase of economic wealth, which is industrial production, can in the last analysis only be provided for by the growth of intellectual capacity, which is education, the realization must follow that eventually, and at no very distant time, the teaching profession will regain its rightful prestige and will be free from many of its temporary handicaps—President Hopkins, Dartmouth College.

Cause of Early Old Age

The celebrated Dr. Michenoff, an authority on early old age, says that it is "caused by poisons generated in the intestine." When your stomach digests food properly it is absorbed without forming poisonous matter. Poisons bring on early old age and premature death. 15 to 30 drops of "Seigel's Syrup" after meals makes your digestion sound. 10

Booklet Tells Of Municipal Hospital

Interesting publication by Department of Health gives valuable information.

By the direction of the Hon.
C. R. Mitchell, Minister of Health for Alberta, a booklet on the Municipal Hospitals of Alberta has just been issued.

According to the information contained in it, there are at present eight Municipal Hospitals in Alberta, built and operating, these being Manville Vermilion, Drumheller, Card-ston, Islay, Bassano, Onoway and Lloydminster, while schemes have been ratified for the erection of these institutions at Hanna and Viking.
These Hospitals Districts comprise an area of 242 townships, including six towns and ten villages.

During the present year our new districts have been established, these being Calgary,
Provost, High River and Pincher Creek.

It is the announced policy of
Hon. C. R. Mitchell, the new Minister of Health, to proceed with this phase of the Health Department work in a most aggressive manner, but on a sound financial basis, with the idea in view of providing the greatest hospital service to the rate payers of Alberta at a minimum cost to the districts concerned.

The booklet is an especially fine specimen of typographical art and it is illustrated profusely with photographs of exterior and interior views of the Hospitals, which are a credit to this progressive branch of the Government.

Any information regarding Municipal Hospitals or copies of the booklet may be obtained from the Secretary, of the Municipal Hospitals Branch, Department of Public Health, Parliament Buildings, Edmonton, Alberta.

He sprang up and the dog's chain and Joe sprang up and left a wet carcase on the man's cheek. Then with a low whine of welcome he bounded away.

"Get down, Joe, you good-for-nothing dog, get down," commanded a voice, and McTavish turned to see Mrs. Ross and Mary Ann coming up the path.

"Good-mornin', good-mornin'," he shouted. "Well, I'll now, but you two are early visitors. Isn't it a grand mornin'?" Came up to the house—the little ma'll be glad to see you both."

"How is she to-day?" Mrs. Ross, rather out of breath from fighting off Joe, set her basket down on the grass and leaned against a tree.

"Can't say she's any stronger, widder."

"Verily, 'all flesh is as grass,'" sighed the good woman, shaking her head dolefully.

The man glanced up quizzically.

"Ma is quoting scripture," explained Mary Ann. "She says we all should work according to some text in the Bible."

"That godly man, Mr. Smythe, has taught me much, Daniel," proclaimed the widow, stooping for her basket, "not sayin' but what I was disbelievin' that flesh was anythin' but grass till Mr. Smythe pointed out them very words in Lukeonomy, 8th verse, Mr. but it's wondrous things the good Book teach us."

McTavish looked at Mary Ann. The girl was smiling and her black eyes were dancing with more than the zest of life. He took the basket from the woman's hand and they passed up the path toward the house.

"I can't just understand what's wrong with ma," said McTavish. "She don't seem to suffer any, just grows weaker day by day. She's too weak to be carried a long distance to see a doctor, and it's too far here for a doctor to come. I wish I knew what to do."

Mary Ann hid her hand on his arm.

"Why not get old Betsy to come and see her?" she suggested.

"Mary Ann!" The widow stood still on the path and eyed her daughter sternly. "Are we comin' out of the disbelievin' ages to allow superstitions to rubber to make our ways? What does the good Book say about witchcraft but that it's 'r'd in the cup and stineth like a snake in the grass'?"

"You're thinkin' of the verse, as cautious man against strong drink, widder," corrected McTavish kindly. "Look not upon the wine when it is red. Do you think?" he went on slowly. "I've been thinkin' as ma Betsy can cure people. We know the cured some of our people right here in Bushwhackers' Place."

"Yes," nodded the woman, "she did, and it do seem strange that witchcraft could do anythin' as is real good, don't it?"

Gloss met the visitors at the door and clapped her hands with delight.

"Oh," she cried, "we were all wishin' you would both come over this mornin'. What d'ye suppose we are doin', Mary Ann?"

"That's easy to tell," returned the widow, sniffing the appetizing atmosphere. "If them ain't cookies you are bakin'! I don't know cookies or bakin', but I hear, if there ain't the sweet little woman herself!"

She crossed the room and bent over the willow couch.

"And so you got up early, too, deary," she said, taking the thin hand lying on the coverlet in hers, and patting it caressingly. "Goin' to help with the bakin', eh?"

"Yes, if you'd only heard her bossin' Granny and me around you'd think she was takin' a hand all right," cried Gloss, "and she's that wasteful, Mrs. Ross, house as you twice as many eggs as are needed, and she won't let us use pork-fryin' for short'nin'. We got to use pure lard, think of that!"

"They are contrary," chafed the invalid, her eyes resting tenderly on the tall girl who, with sleeves tucked up above the elbows, was cutting disks of dough with a can-top, "but I make them obey, Mrs. Ross—don't I, Granny?"

"Aye, Mary, that you do," smiled old lady, placing a basket of newly gathered eggs on the table, "but we'll na stand it for lang, for in a wee bit you'll be up an' aroun' an' doin' the cookin' yourself." At then we'll do the bossin', won't we, Bonnie?"

"We will," cried Gloss. "We'll make her do all the bakin', Granny."

McTavish entered, carrying a big golden pumpkin in either hand.

"Decline says he wants these punkin'-pies made accordin' to ma's orders," he grinned. "Roy and me raised these punkin' just so's we could have a feed on ma's pies, and Delecta has been hangin' around our corned beef all mornin' mighty broad that we'd na mind a pie when ma makes 'em. I guess three or four won't come amiss at the bee, eh, Mary Ann?"

He piled the pumpkins in the girl's lap and pinched her red cheek.

"Sounchow I wish there was goin' to be a weddin' as well as a loughin," he teased. "Haven't I had a chance to play 'Old Zip Coon' weddin' march since I was a big l-kay's music?"

French Joe's little Marie a year ago the old fiddle 'll begin to think this bush place is gettin' behind the times."

"Mr. Simpson don't take to fiddle-music," observed Mrs. Ross with a sigh.

Gloss glanced quickly at Mary Ann, and the eyes of the bush-girls in a look of mutual understanding.

"Bill Paisley loves fiddle-music," cried Gloss, dropping the long pan of brown fragrant cookies on the table and reaching for the old violin. She placed it in McTavish's hands and, catching up Mary Ann from her chair, wound her long arms about his neck.

"Play," she commanded, "and McTavish, sitting on a corner of the table, struck up the old tune of 'Turkey in the Straw'."

In and out of the room the girls flashed, every movement one of grace. The warm blood showed in their cheeks, the wild life in their eyes. Not many could gallop to the quick music of that old tune, but Gloss and Mary Ann had learned how.

Granny McTavish, in her corner peeling the potatoes with quick, unerring slashes, her head moving up and down to the inspiring strains of the fiddle. Widow Ross arose, clapping her hands in time with the music, her matronly face aglow with something akin to youth, her foot stamping the floor in regular thumps twice to each measure. As the music swelled, foster-Granny McTavish arose and with trembling hands removed her glasses.

Big Mac, his face hunched, the old fiddle, smiled as he noted the action, and nodding to widow Ross he changed abruptly to an old Scottish air. The sick woman had struggled up on the couch and tares of laughter were streaming down her face.

"Dance a Scotch four for me," she begged, and Granny and widow Ross faced the two girls on the wide floor.

Oh, such a dance as that was! The young girls could dance, and no mist take. But they could teach the older ones no-thing when it came to executin' that old Scotch dance. In and out they darted, faster and faster their feet moving in perfect time to the exhilarating bars of the music until Big McTavish, unable to contain his joy longer, leaped back on the table and laughed until the very rafters shook and threatened to bring smoked hams and dried venison strips down upon the heads of the merry-makers.

Then Granny, her wrinkled face working, slipped back to her seat, one of potatoes and widow Ross sank into a chair and reached for her basket.

"Sakes alive, dearest," she panted. "I'm too fly to stand it any more."

"Oh, it has made me feel so much better," declared the sick woman. "I do love the fiddle, and it does seem so good to think that dear Granny has not forgotten the old n days."

"When the little ma is well, which please God 'll soon be," said McTavish, "we'll have a real old-fashioned"

The cleanliness of the sealed package appeals to the daintiness of a woman.

She knows that it protects the contents from dust, dirt, odors and moisture.

She will be doubly pleased with our new waxed board package—which we have adopted after several years of testing—because it is stronger, more secure and more completely air-tight; altogether the best container for tea that has yet been devised.

dance here, with all the old boys and girls and all the young boys and girls right here together. And then, ladies, ma and me'll show you how the mornin' should be danced. It's a good fiddle, is Joe, almost as good as anybody I know."

He hung the instrument up on its nail and, passing on to the couch, sank on his knee before it.

"Ma," he said softly, stroking the heavy brown hair away from the little woman's forehead, "there's only one real shadder in all this big bright bush-world of ours, and God ain't goin' to let that rest there long. I've watched shadders long enough to know they don't last. When this one passes, there'll be happy times. You maybe can guess how much I miss you up and around, ma, so won't you try and get better for my sake, and all our sakes?"

She caught the rough, strong hand in hers and held it against her face.

"Mac," she whispered, "I'll try even harder than I have been doing."

He put her cheek back and made to rise, but she hid him.

"And Mac," she said, a catch in her voice, "you ain't worry about me, or about anythin', and you must show Boy that it is useless to worry about losin' this bushland. Nobody can steal it, Mac, believe me; I know."

"O' course you know, ma." He arose and hastily left the house.

Widow Ross, in white apron and bare arms, was dissecting one of the gold'n pumpkins on a block of wood outside.

"And he'll likely have a fine day for his pumpkin to-morrow," she remarked as McTavish passed.

"There'll be quite a crowd there, I bet," returned the man. "I've sort of I-d-tem all to expect a good feed of eustard, widder."

"Oh, you go along, you blarney," cried Mrs. Ross. But she cut into the pumpkin with renewed vigor and started to sing:

"Oh, we'll cross the river of Jordan, Happy, happy, happy, happy, Cross the river of Jordan, Happy in the Lord!"

McTavish listened in wonderment, then with a chuckle made to pass on. The woman had him stay a moment.

"I'm not just sure I done right in dancin' in that Scotch four," she filtered. "Mr. Smythe seems to think dancin' wrong, same's smokin' and such."

"Humph, well now, it seems as Smythe's been preachin' quite a lot to you, widder. See him often?"

"Pretty often," answered the widow slowly. "He's been over to my place some three or four times during the last few days. He's a very nice man, and a good livin' one."

McTavish scratched his head and frowned.

"Humph," he nodded, "quite so, widder."

Aviators Cut Fire Losses.

Fire losses in the forest reserves of Alberta are expected to be greatly decreased this season owing to the splendid work accomplished by the aeroplane forest patrol operating from Morley, is the opinion of a member of the department. Since the air-men started their work they have been able to spot out a number of fires and by notifying the rangers, the fires were extinguished before any appreciable damage was done.

Making an early start next morning and taking along Pat's traps, we again made for the creeks. We left our canoe at the mouth and struck up stream. An hour's steady tramping brought us to a beaver dam only roughly constructed; a little further up another dam slightly better made, and above these a splendid lake backing up quite a lake of water. Evidently the two first dams were only intended to relieve the pressure of high water on the principal one. At the far end of the lake were three large beaver lodges, with hard beaten trails on all sides and trees fallen in every direction, many of these being cut up in short lengths. There were piles of chips and every evidence of busy industry. Patrick's face was a sight, as he estimated there were from forty to fifty or even more beavers resident, and as he had a big bit with the H. B. Company, here was the means to pay it and the choicest of food for the wife and little ones.

Walking round the lake very quietly, we select two good stands for watching that evening, as beaver seldom come out before dusk. Then, after a hasty lunch, we went further up the stream setting traps in the most likely places. Returning to the beaver village about midday we very noisily took our places, and then followed a long wait. We were both armed alike, double barrel guns of the usual H. B. style, 28 bore muzzle loaders with percussion locks, the barrels being extra heavy, making them suitable for either ball or shot, and loaded at the present time with 2-1/2 drachms of powder, 1-2 oz. of shot, a tight fitting wad and a round bullet on top of all. This combination was a very deadly one at close quarters. At last I noticed the lake heave close in front of my stand, and some ripples followed, again, and once again. Then up burst the head of a large beaver, which I immediately shot behind the ear and it once sunk in some twelve feet of water. Stripping off my clothes and standing like Don Cupid on the bank, I was about to dive after my game, when Patrick appeared, smiling to see my unusual costume. On describing the facts, he told me to dress, and cutting a long dry pole, screwed a gun-worm on the end of it (twisted wire which we all carried for extracting wads), and after some prodding began to turn it and then hauled in. Joy, here was a large fine beaver, and I commenced to dance with delight as it was my first one. It was now quite dusk and we started for camp on the joy, and hearty was the welcome we received on reaching here, and before long we were enjoying a delicate dish from the choicest parts of the beaver, which, and I speak from experience, is very excellent food indeed, something between young pork and lamb.

Next day we were to visit the traps and repeat the watching in the evening. The first trap was not disturbed, but in the second was a beaver, which we soon despatched. This trap was set in a tiny affluent of the creek which was very shallow with a stony bed, cut banks about four feet high, lovely soft moss on the bank, with scattered spruce and birch. As Pat specially looked after the traps, they being his own property, I lit my pipe and snuggled down in the moss for a quiet smoke, while he arranged everything in order and re-set the big double spring No. 4 beaver trap (no small task I can tell you). Nothing more to do now but to stroy the traces of human scent; so finally he filled his mouth with water to spurt on the willows by which he was pulling himself up out of the creek. As he had a very hooked nose and round owl-like eyes, the sight of this apparition ascending from the creek, with his cheeks extended at their widest, was too much for my gravity, and I simply yelled with laughter. This so startled Pat that he left go the willows and dropped into his own trap in the creek. Great was the splashing, and what sounded like Indian oaths filled the air. Rendered too weak by laughter to be of much assistance, I crawled to the edge of the bank and surveyed the scene. The chain to the trap allowed about two feet or more play and the Indian was caught fairly by his bare hameh, his costume at that time being breech-cloth and leggings. He was in a most furious rage, and, finally giving up all struggles, he sat in the water with a most sulky countenance. After a number of ineffectual attempts, I at last succeeded in releasing him. His dignity was badly hurt, and though two more beaver rewarded our efforts, he sulked all day. When the story was repeated and acted in the lodge that night, his merry wife and boy howled with laughter, while Patrick sat and smoked with a most injured air, and for some days afterwards sat down very gingerly.

After spending several more successful and pleasant days, and securing sixteen beaver for my share of the hunt, it became time for me to return to duty. The hunting, being still very good and Pat doing so well with his traps, I decided to go alone. So one fine morning, after loading my small-craft with the fur we had killed, also two beaver untouched for the Chief at Cumberland, I shook hands heartily with my late companions who looked sad at the parting. Then stepping cautiously into the canoe, away I went. On reaching the Saskatchewan I had to be extremely careful in navigation as my canoe was loaded to a few inches of the water, also the mighty river was full of drift-wood. I camped that night for the last time beside the mighty river. Well the Cree named it "Kissé-setche-wan-Se-pe," the big, swift flowing river, corrupted by the white man to Saskatchewan.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble, one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes: "I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

Big Immigration Movement

Encouraging Entry Into Canada of Farmers and Farm Laborers.

Winnipeg.—The Ottawa correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press says: It is estimated here that the immigration movement to Canada for the present year will approximate 100,000, the new comers being very largely from Great Britain and the United States.

This total is considered highly satisfactory for the best real post-war year, especially in view of the fact that the policy of the department at the present time is to encourage the entry into Canada of farmers, farm laborers and domestics only. The high water mark in Canadian immigration was reached in 1913, when 403,436 persons entered the Dominion. For the first six months of the present fiscal year a total of 95,035 persons entered the Dominion, an increase of 36 per cent. over the movement for the corresponding period last year. In the matter of origin they were divided as follows: British, 52,768; United States, 30,763; other countries, 11,474.

Paralyzing Blow is Directed at Sinn Fein Finances

Seizure of Funds is Said to be Curbing Rebel Activities.

Toronto.—A special cable from London to the Toronto Star says: Britain's paralyzing blow at the Sinn Fein is directed at its pocketbook, according to the Irish office today. The office declared there was a marked cessation of Sinn Fein activity following bank raids in which records and funds were located. Steps have been taken to choke off the supply of money from America also.

A report of the Sinn Fein Minister of Finance showed £22,607 set apart for the "Self-Determination Fund." It also showed £200,000 (nominally $1,000,000) had been received from America in subscriptions to the Irish Republican Fund. A fund of $2,995,643 was also shown to be on deposit in New York.

Art O'Brien, secretary of the Irish Self-Determination League declared British raiders seized £20,000 from one bank, but that the amount was made good to the Sinn Fein by the banker who had the funds in charge.

Refuses War Trophies.

London.—Australian cables report that the City Council of Sydney, which is mostly made up of Labor elements, has refused to accept the offer of war trophies from the Federal government, and will take no part in the conference for their distribution.

Wants Freight Rates Adjusted.

Toronto.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has made application to the Board of Railway Commissioners asking for the earliest consideration of the question of equalizing freight rates between Western and Eastern Canada.

Will Send Relief to Schooner Ice-bound Off Siberia.

Seattle, Wn.—Nome, Alaska, residents are planning to send a snow sled relief expedition across the frozen Arctic to the trading schooner Polar Bear which is trapped in ice off the Siberian coast, 225 miles from Nome, according to reports received here. Reindeer will pull the sleds.

The Polar Bear has a crew of five men and less than two months' supplies aboard. The boat is believed to be within 50 miles of the schooner Maude, on which Rauld Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, is attempting to reach the North Pole.

ALTARIO

The event of the week in our little burg was the farewell party given by the W. I. to Mr. and Mrs. F. Townsend, who are leaving for the states. The President, Mrs. Dr. Robinson, kindly lent her home and a good time was enjoyed by the guests who were entertained by music, games etc. On behalf of the W. I. Mrs. Robinson presented Mrs. Townsend with a gold and pearl Maple Leaf Brooch, and in a neat speech referred to the happy relationship that had always existed amongst them all during the time Mrs. Townsend was a member. It was she who had been the first secretary of the W. I. and the work was well and faithfully done. The whole community regretted their departure, and wished them the best of good luck. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend both replied in a few words expressing their appreciation of the kindness shown in the beautiful gift. The large gathering joined in singing "Jolly Good Fellows" and after a dainty lunch, dispersed in the sma hours. This was one of the best and largest parties held in town.

Ye Stork is busy these days and assures us he has many engagements on hand. Baby Galloway (a girl) arrived this week at the home of Mrs. M. McLeod. Mrs. Schwartz of Compeer has a daughter and Mrs. Kishruseki a son, both at the hospital. Congratulations all round ladies.

Mrs. Gowland entertained a large party of W. I. ladies in her beautiful new home on Saturday last. Papers were read by Mrs. Galloway on the feeding of children. Other ladies giving items of Womens progress all over the work. Arrangements were completed for the Xmas Bazaar and Concert to be held on Dec. 10th in the Schoolroom in aid of the Red Cross Hospital of Altario.

In response to several appeals from News readers to hear something of the doings of this busy burg, we once again resume this column. As we are not afflicted by a cacoethes scribendi however, we will willing pass the work on to any one who is keen for a job—must be a live-wire booster, wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove.

How Much to Marry Upon.

Out in Indiana a justice of the peace, who specializes in marrying, said a salary of $10 a week was enough for a couple to marry upon. The pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal Church thinks different, saying the salary should be at least $900 a year. Three other married men said no one should marry on less than $50 a week, and a woman who was interviewed warned young couples it always would require $10 to $15 a week more than they estimated they needed to live.

Smuts is Praised

His Action in Bringing About a Union of the Parties in South Africa Praised.

The London Times says that General Smuts' patriotism and wisdom and that of the Dutch-speaking people who call him leader, has saved South Africa from the dark certainty of a civil war. They made attempts at reconciliation with Hereng and the Nationalists, but always on the stern condition of no compromise with Nationalism, which the Nationalists would not concede. General Smuts has now made an appeal to all South Africans who believe in racial unity to reject Republicanism, which appeal has been enthusiastically received by his own and the South African party and also by Unionists which represents almost wholly the English-speaking South Africans led by Sir Thomas Smart.

The new party to be formed may involve the complete disappearance of the Unionists. Both component parts of the new party, says the Times, make costly sacrifices. Namely Smuts and his party, that of a formidable breach with men of their own race, and Smart and the Unionists that of the identity of their party with all its traditions and proper pride. Both will have the abiding consolation of the knowledge that devotion to their country's welfare is worth infinitely more than racial ties or party triumphs.

Changing Seed

Experiments Show Plan Has Nothing To Recommend It.

Many farmers still think it advisable to change their seed grain every two or three years. In the light of the work done by the various experimental farms of Canada, this practice has nothing to recommend it, while on the contrary, it has been shown that there are distinct advantages in not changing seed. By the use of a good fanning-mill it is quite possible to grow the same grain year after year on the same farm and maintain its productivity, provided that the grain is seeded early each season on well-drained, fertile soil. The seed should not be blamed for poor farming, which is most frequently the cause of the farmers dissatisfaction.

Navigation of Rhine Extended.

Swiss engineers have perfected the plans for extending navigation of the Rhine from a point twelve miles above Basel to Lake Constance by using locks from which hydro-electric power will be obtained.

WHY ANAEMIA PREVAILS

The Strenuous Conditions of Life To-day Are Responsible.

Mothers who remark that girls to-day are more prone to anaemia than the girls of a generation ago, should look back at the surroundings in which they and their companions lived. They would easily see the reason in life's altered circumstances to-day.

Now the school-girl's life is more strenuous; her more numerous studies are a severe tax upon her strength. Also, girls enter business soon after leaving school—at an age when they most need rest and outdoor life. Their womanly development is hampered by the stress of working hours, hurried and often scanty meals. Girls are more liable to bloodlessness today, but there is this consolation that whereas doctors formerly regarded anaemia as often incurable, the cures are now counted in tens of thousands. Such medicines as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored to good health thousands of weak anaemic girls and women, simply because they contain the elements necessary to make new, rich, red blood, which means good health and vitality.

When your daughter's strength fails and palor, breathlessness and headache disclose her anemic condition, remember that you can make her well and assure her healthy development by giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for restoring good blood. Remember, too, that for women of all ages Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially helpful in the many ailments that result from very blood. They make women and girls well and keep them well. This is amply proved by the case of Miss Eva MacKinnon, Glanville, Ont., who says: "As a school girl I grew very pale and would take dizzy spells and sometimes vomiting. My condition was such that I was not able to attend school regularly, and my mother was very much worried about my condition. Finally she decided to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I took these for a considerable time, gradually gaining strength until I was perfectly well. It is some years since I took the pills and I have enjoyed the best of health, and I am certain pale, sickly girls will find new health if they give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Steel Works For Manitoba.

A new era in the manufacturing of steel in Canada was introduced with the opening of the new open earth furnaces at Selkirk, by the Manitoba Rolling Mill Company. The new furnace has a capacity of from sixty to ninety tons of steel per day and additions will be made as business warrants them.

A Word About Xmas

Xmas is the most gorgeous time of the year. All selfishness is forgotten and we all try to make some one else glad. We express our feelings with gifts of toys, candies and books to the little ones, and Chocolates, Jewelry, China-ware and Fancy Stationery for the grown ups. Realizing this fact, and knowing our requisitions from past experience the Kennedy Drug Co. are making one of the finest displays ever seen in Monitor, of Hand-painted China, pearl white Ivory and Ebony, Toilet and Manicure sets. Statues for the mantel and Piano, and Toys and Dolls and childrens Books by the thousand. And, say, you should just see the display of new Jewelry—Ladies Gold wrist watches, Bells, Tie pins, Cuff Links, Solid Gold Brooches, Fountain Pens and hundreds of other things to numerous to mention, and, one word about prices. We purchase our goods in Toronto and Vancouver, and had them all shipped before the advance in freight. We must admit that we are over-stocked and rather than carry the goods over we are selling at a small margin. I firmly believe we can save you 35 per cent on your Xmas Gifts. You are invited to come early, while our stock is complete and look them over. We will be pleased to store away anything that you may select until Xmas. The Home of Santa Claus.

General Lyautey To Be New
Marshall of France

Photo shows General Lyautey who is to be the Marshall of France. This is a pleasing intimation that one of the greatest servants of the Republic has won the well merited reward of a distinguished career. General Lyautey has been awarded the highest military rank in the first army of Europe for his services as an organizer.
